Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claims 12-30, drawn to a jet propulsion engine for a watercraft having a carbide bearing.

Group II, claim 31, drawn to a method of producing a bearing on a jet propulsion engine of a watercraft, having a plurality of bearing segments, by positively locking a first portion of the plurality of bearing segments to a rotor; applying adhesive between the first portion of the plurality of bearing segments and the rotor; grinding at least two bearing surfaces that are substantially perpendicular to each other of the first portion of the plurality of bearing segments; positively locking a second portion of the plurality of bearing segments to a housing; applying adhesive between the second portion of the plurality of bearing segments and the housing; and grinding at least two bearing surfaces that are substantially perpendicular to each other of the second portion of the plurality of bearing segments.

The groups of inventions listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

A jet propulsion engine having a rotor and a housing, with the rotor having an inner portion with blades, with the housing receiving the rotor, and the rotor being rotationally connected to the housing by a bearing, is known in the art. See for example, U.S. Patents 5,484,266 and 2,153,055. Bearings comprising carbide that is resistant to sea-water are also known in the art. See for example, U.S. Patent 4,934,837. Segmented bearings are conventional in the art. Therefore, the claims of group I do not avoid the prior art and inventions I and II are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept, since the claims in group I do not recite the corresponding special technical features set forth above of group II that occur in the method of producing the bearing.

A telephone call was not made to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, because the inventor is out of the country.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention or species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions have unity of invention (37 CFR 1.475(a)), applicant must provide reasons in support thereof. Applicant may submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. Where such evidence or admission is provided by applicant, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Christopher Verdier whose telephone number is (571) 272-4824. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday from 10:00-6:30.
